Scope and Content Note:

The J. Farrington Medical Bill, 1809, enumerates the medical services and their fees provided by Dr. J. Farrington to James Boone from 1807 until 1809. The bill includes visits, medicine and medical attendance to Boone, his family and slaves in his last illness from January 1807 through September 1808. Other charges are for the hire of two slaves for one year. Payment was made in two installments by Thomas Waring, executor of Boone's estate.
